PEER MEDIATION FORUM

Peer Mediators

By Jackson Dixey

Purposeful communication is defined as “conveying a message clearly and intentionally, to achieve a specific outcome.” On Thursday, nine Amesbury High School students got to learn more about purposeful communication at the annual Peer Mediator Forum held at Danversport Yacht Club. Peer Mediation is a newly offered program at Amesbury High School. Its purpose is to offer conflict resolution options to students. It allows students to resolve conflicts with each other through a process guided by other students. The program provides extensive training to its members and is led by Ms. Little.

Each spring, peer mediators across the Northshore meet at the Peer Forum. This year marked the 20th anniversary of the event where many schools gathered in participation. The event provided a delicious lunch and an exciting networking opportunity. The highlight of the meeting was speaker Maria Milagros, who spoke about “purposeful communication”.

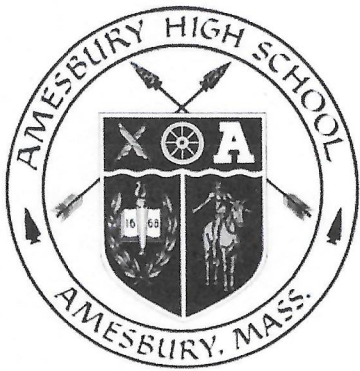

Purposeful communication is presenting a message in a clear and intentional way to achieve a desired outcome. It requires one to understand the audience, deliver the message in a way that connects with the audience, and to be clear about goals. Attendees learned that to be successful, they need to truly understand their audience. This is precisely what makes peer mediation so effective. Students understand other students better than anyone else does. They can relate firsthand to the pressures students face as a result of school, work, hobbies, society, social media, and families. Attendees also learned that how a message is communicated is important. Some matters can be resolved on their own, but others will require frequent two-way communication better achieved through a face-to-face meeting. Having a strong understanding of both the audience and the situation will assist in determining the best method of communication. Clarity is the third key element highlighted by Ms. Milagros. Peer mediators learned that it is important to state the goal of the meeting clearly and concisely and with a high degree of emotional intelligence. That is to focus on the situation, not the emotions caused by the situation. Following these guidelines will help resolve conflicts quickly and effectively. The information provided by Ms. Milagros was greatly received by all attendees. Most felt that it will not only assist them in their work as peer mediators, but also throughout their lives in general. Purposeful communication can help distinguish a person as responsible, mature, and capable of leading effectively. All of us can benefit from Ms. Milagros' wise counseling.

Bunny Bash

Snow didn't stop the Bunny Bash on Saturday morning from 10am- noon. The cafe was filled with a massive number of children and their parents. Parents paid $10 for one child and $15 for two with an additional $5 for each child. Each child received a raffle ticket with admission. The Sophomore Class made $850 on the event.

The chairpeople for Bunny Bash were Josiah Fugate (the bunny), Jamie Hawkins, and Natalia M. Jess Silva, Leo Fonseca, Sophia Manetakis, and Sophia Le also helped out a lot, according to class advisor Mrs. Yeoman.

The young children, with their parents, came to meet the Easter Bunny and enjoy coloring easter pictures, egg decorating, and face painting. Despite only three sophomores working, there was a long line at the face painting station. Children could also play a game with Peeps. Any child who could eat five Peeps in a minute would win candy. Some children tried this challenge, but most were not very interested in peeps. Parents could also buy snacks such as Easter decorated cup cakes. A couple of freshmen, Jackson Dixie and Brooke Woodsom, helped out for community service and to be able to go to the sophomores for help.

The Easter Bunny came to visit AHS early!

At 11AM the egg hunt took place. Since this would be a mess in the snow, hundreds of plastic eggs, filled with candy, were set up in the hallway outside the cafe. At the strike of 11, class advisor Mr. Miller ordered the cafe doors open and a deluge of little kids burst into the hallway. There were plenty of eggs for everyone. Kids who got one of the five "golden" eggs got an extra raffle ticket. The winners of the raffle won gift cards to local establishments.

The Bunny Bash was started by the Class of 2024, which made a lot of money at it. When they graduated it was up for grabs. If the Class of 2027 needed money, they struck gold with this event.

SAC REORGANIZES

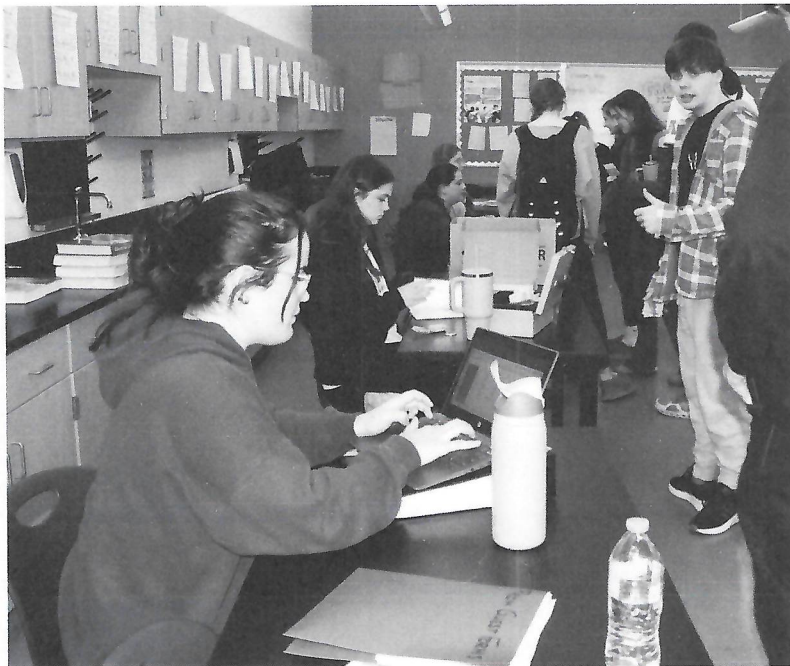

Addi Snow retained her chairmanship of the Student Advisory Council Tuesday night as the council elected new officers for the coming year. Marley Metcalf is the new vice chair and Livia Busch is the new secretary. These people were chosen by the current council. It appears that people will actually be running for SAC in this year's class elections. Snow's policy of having open meetings at the beginning of the year to let kids "try it out" before committing seems to have resulted in a larger and more enthusiastic council, whose members want to stay. In addition to Winter Carnival, SAC promotes changes which benefits students, such as pushing for better school lunches.

Marley Metcalf, Addi Snow, and Livia Busch are the new SAC Officers for next year.

HIT THE JACKPOT

It seems the Juniors have found the magic fundraising ticket by hosting movie nights for Middle School kids hosted their second AMS movie night where they played The Lego Movie and raised about $470. They sold snacks and the movie price was $5. There were less students that attended this time than the last one, for 6th graders, but it was still a success.

Emmalyn Omohundro enters names into the seating chart for the prom.

PROM TICKETS GOING FAST

Room 139 was filled with students buying prom tickets when our camera person visited during WIN on Tuesday. However, the juniors were expecting a big rush on Thursday and Friday, the last day to buy. The Prom costs $80 per ticket and will be held at the Blue Ocean Function Hall in Salisbury on May 2.

SENIORS GOT TALENT?

The yearbook is looking for performing acts for the Sing-Out assembly, which will be held on Friday, May 23rd. If you can sing, play an instrument, or ride the unicycle, sign up outside room 136.

CALDERWOOD ELECTED PRESIDENT OF NEMASC

Junior Connor Calderwood was elected president of the North East Massachusetts Association of Student Councils at the NEMASC spring leadership conference this past Wednesday. The event was held at North Reading High School. Calderwood, member of the Amesbury E-Board, beat out candidates from North Reading and Tewksbury. There were 13 schools and about 240 students from across the northeast region who attended. Calderwood has been attending NEMASC conferences since he was a freshman and has made a lot of connections. We hear he also had a great speech.

The presidents job comes with a lot of responsibility. Calderwood will be running meetings of the NEMAS board every two weeks, and will be responsible for running the fall and spring conferences.

NEMASC conferences include many workshops. This year there were eight and Calderwood ran one of the them Maria Barbosa. The topic was Capturing Leadership on Screen. The goal was to have the participants create commercials highlighting different leadership skills to effectively promote student councils at their schools.

As president, Calderwood is also on the state council.

When asked why he took on this demanding job, Calderwood said, "I really like Student Council so I though I would give it a try."

Connor Calderwood is now the president of the group which respresens all the student councils in the northeast part of Massachusetts.

CAROLINA ORELLANA

By Alice Moulton

Carolina, or as some call her Lina, would say the most unique thing about her is her lashes. If she were given on word to describe herself, she would say she is outgoing because she loves to try new things! Carolina's greatest accomplishment is getting student choice 2 years in a row! In school, Carolina's favorite teacher is Sconce because she is a great teacher! Her favorite class is math because it's so easy!! If Carolina could change anything about her high school career, she would have wanted to do more sports. Overall, the most memorable part of Carolina's high school experience has been yearbook in 11th grade.

Outside of school, Carolina enjoys art and photography. She also enjoys Hispanic mango ice cream, shopping at Aerie, and playing The Legend of Zelda. If Carolina were granted three wishes, she would want money, a Bronco, and Nike shoes. Carolina would say her greatest hero is her mom, as she has always been supportive no matter what! How sweet!

On a different note, Carolina's

If there was one thing Carolina could change about her life, she would want to be better at

English. An expression she tend to overuse is her side eye... Some of Carolina's pet peeves are people not cleaning up after themselves and things being misplaced. If Carolina were to have a superpower, she would want super speed to get things done quickly. Whoosh!

When Carolina was young, she wanted to be a police officer because she thought they were cool. Now, she plans to go to college to be a nurse. The last most embarrassing moment was almost tripping down the stairs during a fire drill. Some of Carolina's oddest habits are watching Grey's Anatomy and eating while the surgeries are playing. Yikes!

advice Carolina leaves to the senior class is to enjoy high school as much as you can! We hope Carolina enjoys the rest of her year, and that her post highschool life is just as enjoyable!

NAYLANI BESLAGIC

Senior Profile

By Alice Moulton

Naylani has a whole bunch of nicknames! She is called Nay, Naynay, Whip Nay, and Sky. Naylani would say the most unique thing about her is her hair. If she were to use one word to describe herself, she would say she is loyal.

In school, Naylani's favorite teacher is Mrs. Johnston because of how sweet she is! Her favorite year of high school was sophomore year, and two students Naylani enjoys are Katie Ishihara and Angel Orobi.

Outside of school, Naylani likes to read and skateboard. She also likes to eat burritos, play Call of Duty, and shop at Target. If she were granted three wishes, she would want to settle for.

Chipotle, her senior research paper written for her, and concert tickets.

Naylani would say the best advice she has ever recieved is to never settle for those you wouldn't want your kids to Naylani's biggest pet peeves are slow walkers and teacher's pets. The greatest mystery she wants to see explained is why there is never enough pizza... hmm...

When Naylani was young, she wanted to be a veterinarian. Now, she plans on being a pediatric nurse. In ten years, Naylani plans on going to nursing school. Her advice to her eight-year-old self is to not worry, as life is not as bad as you think! We hope Naylani reaches all her goals, and that her life continues to be great after high school!

When no one is looking, Naylani likes to sneeze. Achoo!!!

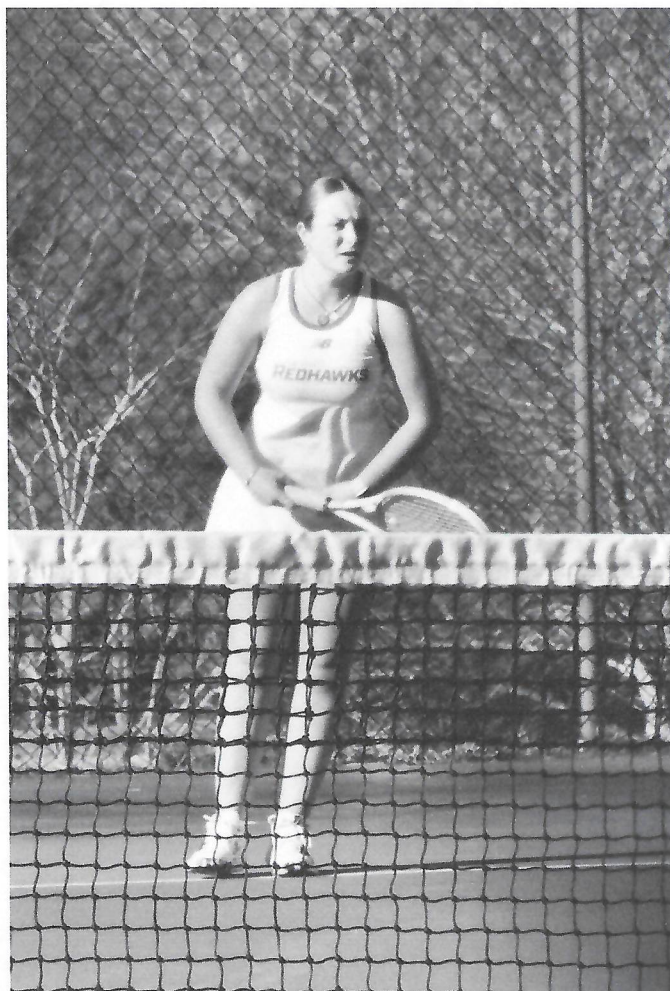

GOOD LUCK THIS YEAR!

Girls' Tennis

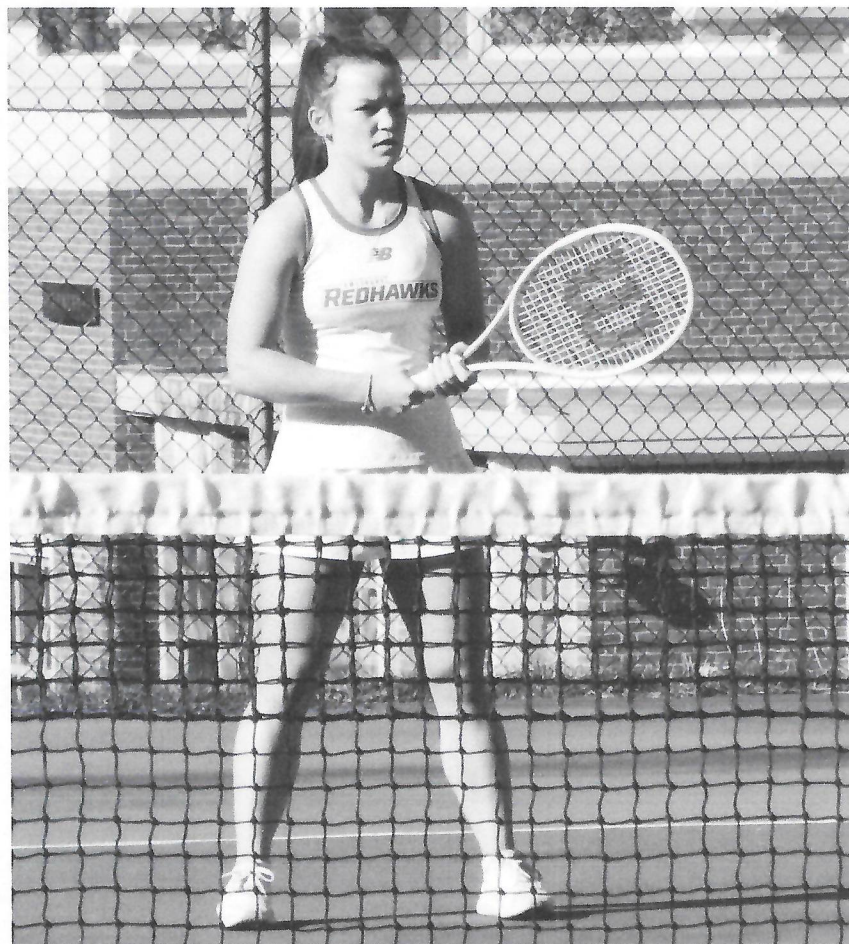

By Tori Woodsom

The girls tennis team starts their first few matches with junior Maeve Snyder as their number one, freshmen Kenzie Cameron as their number two, and senior Addy Upson as their number three. Their first doubles team consists of senior Annah Belisle and junior Sammy Porter. Their second doubles team includes the juniors Liv Thorpe and Bailey Kimball.

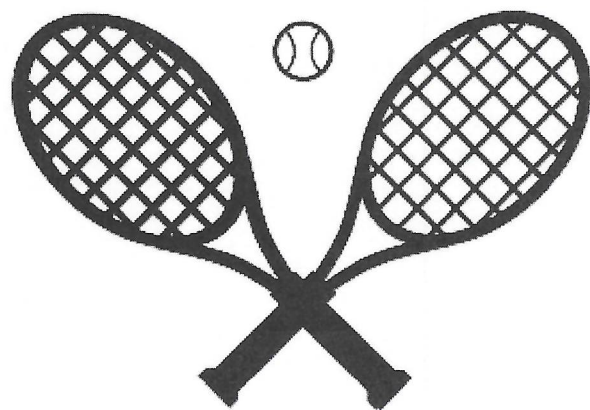

The girl's first match took place last Monday against Hamilton Wenham. It was a tough game as all three singles and both doubles lost. But they fought hard. Their first home game was also their first win with a score of 3-2 against Pentucket. All three singles pulled the win while both doubles came up a bit short. This past Monday they played Ipswich and had another loss with another 0-5 result. Their next home game is on Monday against North Reading. A strong start with a stacked team!

Addy Upson is pumped to be back.

Annah Belisle is ready to return the ball.

A ROUGH START

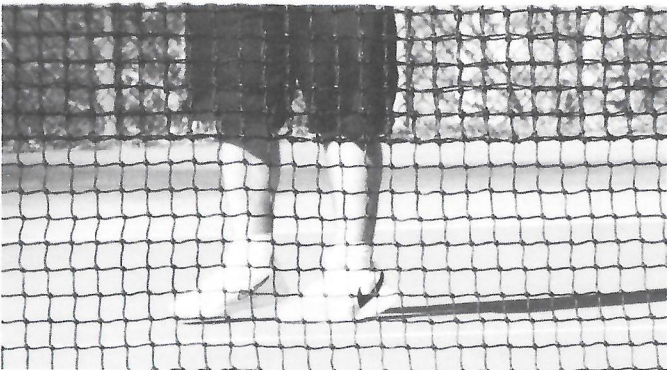

Tennis

By Andrew Roberts

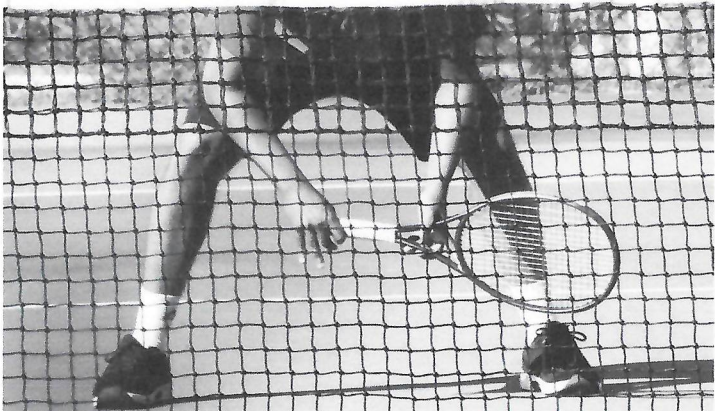

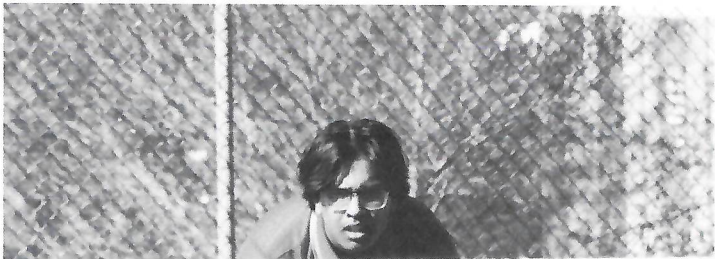

Unfortunately, the boys' tennis team is off to a rough start, losing to both teams they played so far. The first match of the season kicked off at an away game in Pentucket. There, the team lost 2-3, with Jared Black in third singles solidly winning his match and Andrew Roberts and Julian Sherwood in second doubles coming back late in their game to beat their opponents. The second game, a home match against Ipswich, started off promising enough, but did end up in defeat at the end. First of all, Luke Sheehan, the new first singles on the team, got revenge for his loss in the previous match, smoking his opponent. Noah Blouin, the second singles player, also triumphed over Ipswich's competitor and solidified the second win for the team. For the rest of the tennis team, though, it was a different story. At the end of the day, the team lost 2-3, but the games were still competitive. They hope they can manage to win their future matches.

Preparing for Spring!

Dear Petunia Jones,

I have been waiting many long years for this spring (it only comes once a decade in my city), but alas, I do not know how to properly usher it in! What if when I attempt to usher it in, I actually scare it away? If this happens my city will drive me out and I will never be allowed to return.

-John

Dear John,

It sounds like you're quite spring-minded! However, spring may not be willing to arrive if you do not properly beckon it! There are several steps you must take to ensure that spring arrives safely. Firstly, flowers are very important to let spring know you want to usher it in. I suggest you obtain several bags of flour. Bread flour, all purpose flour, cricket flour, any flour will do. Sprinkle the flour all over your yard and house, and make sure you completely coat any grass so real flowers will not grow. This will let spring know that you value flowers so much you are willing to profess your love without harming any real flowers! Spring will also be more inclined to arrive if you decorate with rabbits. Spring loves rabbits, and if you show your appreciation of them, spring will love you too! I recommend going to a field with carrots and a fishing pole. Attach the carrots to the end of the pole and lure the rabbits towards you! Once you have caught a rabbit, put it in your backpack and repeat the process. Once you have gathered a sufficient amount of rabbits, or about 10, put them in your front yard. This should be festive enough to signal to spring that you desire its presence. If spring has still not arrived after you have made these efforts, you may need to go a step further. One thing spring cannot resist is a basket of eggs. However, if you simply put eggs in a basket, spring may believe you are mocking it by mimicking it's favorite egg arrangement. You must be more creative with your egg placement. I recommend gathering several packs of eggs and tossing them into the flour on your lawn and house. Flowers and eggs! Spring will surely come if you decorate your house in a spring-ish manner such as this. But do not forget! You must add spring colors to your decorations. This can be done simply by pouring differently colored acrylic paints across your lawn (if you do not have acrylic paint, colorful condiments like ketchup and mustard will do). Once spring sees your delightful home, it will surely grace your city with its presence!
